Kitten Advice Guide

Diet	It is essential that you feed a complete kitten food to ensure your new cat is getting all the right nutrients to help it grow. <ul style="list-style-type: none">-4 meals per day until 3 months old.-3 meals per day until 6 months.-2 meals per day for life.
Vaccinations	After the initial vaccine course which usually finishes at 12 weeks of age, a booster must be given every 12 months to keep your pet continually protected against infectious diseases.
Worming	Milbemax tablets for cats and kittens are a complete wormer. Your pet should be treated regularly to prevent an infestation of internal parasites. Once a month, every month, until 6 months old. Then every 4 months for life. For cats who are opposed to taking tablets Profender spot-on is available.
Flea Control	Regular treatments are needed to prevent an infestation of fleas, eggs and larvae in your home and possibly flea allergic dermatitis on your pet. Frontline / Advocate spot-on every 4 weeks.
Insurance	We strongly recommend all cats are insured from a minimum of 8 weeks of age with Petplan Insurance. Please see one of our trained advisors for more information.
Neutering	Your cat can be castrated /spayed from 4 months of age. We strongly recommend that is done as soon as possible to prevent unwanted litters and to help reduce associated medical problems in older age.
Microchip	This involves a small chip being placed under your cats skin via the form of an injection. It can be done any time from 8 weeks of age.
Training	Training and Socialisation are an important part of a cats behavior. please ask for further advice.
Homecare	It is important that your cat is used to being handled. Take time at home to groom him/her and examine feet/ears etc. Teeth should be brushed daily to prevent tartar build up and tooth decay (and yes, cats will tolerate a toothbrush!)
